

ROOSEVELT TESTIFIES HE NEVER DRANK LIQUOR BUT BY DOCTORS' ORDERS

SWORN STATEMENT MADE BY FORMER PRESIDENT IN TRIAL
AT MARQUETTE TODAY.

SPEAKS IN OWN BEHALF

Goes into Details As to Various Times
He Has Found It Necessary to Take Stimulants.

Marquette, Mich., May 27.—Theodore Roosevelt took the witness stand today in his libel suit against George A. Newell, who in an editorial charged him with drunkenness. The former president entered a denial. He admitted using light wines with meals, but never touched strong liquors except on advice of his physicians or after great exposure. He says he does not smoke nor touch beer.

At the outset he gave a complete biography of himself from the time he was born up to the present day. Continuing the colonel said:

"I never have drunk a cocktail or highball in my life."

"With the exceptions hereafter noted I never drank whiskey or brandy except under the advice of a physician."

"I don't care for the taste of either. I don't smoke and I don't drink beer because I dislike smoking and dislike the taste of beer. I never have drunk whiskey or brandy except when the doctor prescribed it or possibly on some occasion after great exposure when I was chilled through. It has been certainly fifteen or twenty years since I have drunk it because of being chilled through. I never have drunk beer nor do I drink red wine. The only wines that I have drunk have been white wines. Madeira, champagne, or very occasionally a glass of sherry. At home I often at dinner will drink a wine glass or two wine glass of Madeira. I will often drink a tall glass of white wine and Poland water, or Poly water. At public dinners I sometimes drink a glass of champagne or perhaps two. I think that on the average this means that I will drink champagne about once a month.

"The only exceptions to what I have stated about drinking whiskey and brandy are as follows: A big dinner at the White House. I had a mint julep. I very rarely drink in the White House. We had a mint julep. I should think that on the average I may have drunk half a dozen mint juleps in the White House four years ago to the best of my memory. I have drunk mint juleps twice, on one occasion at the country club at St. Louis, where I drank part of a glass of mint julep. The bottle of brandy was taken for me because I do not drink liquor."

"The only other occasions on which I have drunk whiskey have been when it is prescribed by the doctor. During the last fourteen years I do not believe I have drunk whiskey straight or with water more than half a dozen times."

"On the African trip the expedition took along a case of champagne, a case of whiskey and one bottle of brandy. The bottle of brandy was taken for me because I do not drink liquor."

"Some of the other members of the party drank whiskey. The champagne was used medicinally for three members of the party who were down with fever, dysentery and for two or three travelers, hunters and mission-aries we met who were sick."

"I never touched either the whiskey or the champagne. Out of the brandy bottle I drank exactly seven ounces, this being given me by Dr. Mearns on two occasions when I had fever."

"The last time I told him I disliked it so that I did not think it did me any good, and unless he objected, I would take it. Accordingly I took a sip I would not take any more, and then he said, 'You had measured it, and that I had drunk just seven ounces of it eleven months.'

"As for brandy, I never drink it any

M'GOVERN OPPOSED TO HULL'S SYSTEM OF DIRECT MARKET

Governor Vetoes Bill Introduced by Speaker of House Declaring It Contains Unwise Limitations.

Madison, Wis., May 27.—Speaker Hull's bill directing the Industrial Commission to establish a system of direct marketing was vetoed by Governor McGovern last night. His general reason for opposing it in the following paragraph:

"The object sought to be attained by the enactment of this bill is improvement in present methods of marketing and is therefore commendable; but the administrative machinery employed and the limitations imposed make the act both unwise and unconstitutional."

Coming on the eve of the debate over the government marketing commission bill, the interposition of this veto is calculated to have a disturbing effect.

Affects Limited Number.

The Hull bill gives the Industrial Commission power to act as a medium for the sale of products between farmers and the city consumers, the commission to receive the names, financial standing and other data from the sellers and buyers. Governor McGovern questions the right to spend public money to assist intending purchasers and sellers of farm products in bargaining with each other. He also objects because, he says, all producers and consumers are not included in the scope of the bill. He says that no one except a limited number of farmers and such purchasers as the Industrial Commission may see fit to enroll on the "fair list of purchasers of farm products" will come within its purview.

"This being so," he adds, "public money cannot lawfully be spent to enforce it."

He also declares the clause giving only individuals and not corporations also, the right to have their names placed on the proposed list.

The bill is called not a valid exercise of the power of taxation. The constitutionality of the bill is questioned in the following paragraph:

"The governor also objects to the bill in that no appeal from the Industrial Commission is provided, and because no check is placed on the commission in the use of its discretion in making up the 'fair list of purchasers of farm products' or in removing from the list afterwards the names of individuals who may have proven unreliable. Many other alleged defects are cited."

The governor says the bill will punish the honest for their misfortune as well as the wicked for their iniquities, and in conclusion says:

"Provision of this bill removed, the limited appropriation of $200,000 which it provides would prove altogether insufficient to accomplish anything worth while, and the lines proposed why attribute at the fringe of this great problem? If we wish to improve marketing conditions in Wisconsin why not deal comprehensively with the question? Partial and piecemeal legislation concerning this matter is not only liable to fail because of unconstitutionality but is quite certain also to prove ineffective in practice."

Salary Revision Bill.

The bill which provides for the revision of the salaries in the various state departments with the idea of making the state service uniform comes for consideration this week. The bill was given final passage by the senate last Thursday, but has been placed on the calendar for reconsideration on motion of Senator Scott. This motion was made because when the bill was passed only twenty senators were recorded as voting.

Among the departments where there is to be a revision in salaries is the state department. The constitution provides that all laws relating to banking must have the support of two-thirds of all members. One of the changes proposed in this bill is to take the state civil service commission from 30 days to 100 days' employment annually. This would effect a saving of $600 a year in salaries of the commissioners, but the finance committee recommends that the salary of the secretary be increased $500.

Urges Capitol Park Add.

The capitol building commission has sent a letter to legislators asking their approval of the $100,000 bill for extending the capitol park by condemning six residential and business blocks between the present park and Lake Monona. The letter says the proposal has the endorsement of Senator La Follette, Governor McGovern and others. It proposes to bond the state by issuing twenty-year certificates of indebtedness, the interest upon which would be paid by renting the present buildings until the state is able to demolish them. The bill also proposed to buy or the land until the state has finished paying for the construction of the new capitol.

COTTON PROSPECTS ARE NOT THE BEST

Too Little Rain in Eastern Belt and Too Cold West of Mississippi—Early Planting General.

New Orleans, La., May 27.—It is many years since there has been such a marked division of opinion as to the future of the cotton crop. This year thus far has been a peculiar one which presents a variety of apparent sound arguments either for or against another bumper crop. Perhaps one of the most effective arguments advanced by those interested in increasing the price of last year's cotton is that three big crop years seldom come consecutively. On the other hand, boll weevil conditions caused very early planting over a larger acreage than ever before has been set out in the King of Slaves. In the eastern belt there has been too little rain and in the west of the Mississippi it has been too cold. Large areas have had to be replanted and there has been a shortage of good seed. But even under these adverse conditions there are plenty of authorities who confidently predict a 16,000,000 bale crop.

Now that warmer weather has set in, there is reason to think that the crop will be better than last year's. The danger of floods from the Mississippi is past and there will be at least 300,000 bales raised on land that was under water when the cotton was planted. Now that the crop is getting well started the chances seem to favor it, as the plants have been injured to the changeable climate of the cotton belt through generations. But regardless of the strength of the plant the arch enemy, the boll weevil, has to be considered, and as to his ravages no one can predict with any degree of certainty.

LOBBYISTS FEARING PRESIDENT'S WRATH IN A PANIC TODAY

Do Not Know Just What Is Going to Happen After All in Washington Now.

Washington, May 27.—The small army of "tariff lobbyists" which has been occupying Washington since the Underwood bill passed the house was in a state of confusion today because of President Wilson's sudden and vigorous attack on the "numerous, industrious, and insidious lobby." Many of the lobbyists, however, are not taking the president's statement referred to them although he called none by name and designated none personally even by inference, began issuing statements and preparing interviews to justify their position. Most prominent for many years in official life, including former United States senators now identified with either sugar or wool interests in the organized effort against the Underwood bill, were disconcerted after reading the president's declaration and speculating on its probable effect. Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee reiterated today his statement that the lobbyists were not getting very far, adding that never in his legislative experience had he seen so determined and so extensive a lobby. The expense of the wool and sugar lobbies in Washington alone to say nothing of literature circulation and advertising amounts to thousands of dollars a day. More than 100 representatives of varied industries were clamoring early today at the doors of the senate finance room to be heard before the hearings close at 5 o'clock. At 10 o'clock Senator Kenyon of Iowa, a Republican, was an early caller at the White House today to commend President Wilson for his stand against lobbyists.

London, May 27.—The central criminal court was packed with distinguished persons of the political and literary world today for the opening of the trial for criminal libel of Cecil Chubb, a brother of G. K. Chesterton, the author and humorist, of London, against the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company. The prosecution arose out of the articles written by Chubb, in which he charged Godfrey, a managing director of the Marconi company, with corruption in connection with the British government's wireless contracts. The whole Marconi affair, which has been the foremost topic in England for some time, is likely to be reviewed in the course of the trial.

WOULD SOLVE PEACE PROBLEMS QUICKLY

Rumor at Washington That Plans
Have Been Made to Secure Peace in Balkans.

Washington, May 27.—A plan is under discussion for holding the peace treaty between Turkey and the Balkan states.

The European powers recommended that those states which had signed the 1913 peace treaty should be invited to meet in a conference without those that were not signatories. It is pointed out that Bulgaria could thus conclude terms with Turkey and the Powers could then devote their attention to inducing the recalcitrant states to sign.

PASSENGER TRAINS COLLIDE; TWO KILLED

Engineers—Failed to Wait.

Brant, Mo., May 27.—Two engineers were killed and several other persons including a number of passengers were injured in a head-on collision between passenger trains No. 11 west bound and No. 12 east bound on the Missouri Pacific railway near here today.

The dead are: Albert Ford, engineer Sedalia, Mo.; and Elijah McLaughlin, engineer, Sedalia, Mo. No. 11 and No. 12 were twin trains, and the two fastest trains between St. Louis and Kansas City. At 11:30 last night No. 11 left St. Louis and No. 12 left Kansas City. The trains were to have passed on a siding at Brant, Mo., the first station east of Brant. No. 11 failed to wait at McGirk. Going at a high rate of speed the two locomotives crashed into each other. Both were demolished and the engines crushed and scalded. The trains alike in make-up, consisted of three steel mail cars, a chair car, a dining car, and four sleeping cars.

TRAINMEN DISCUSS COMPENSATION ACT

Workingmen's Compensation Act
Discussion Resumed by Railroad Men at Brotherhood Convention.

San Francisco, May 27.—Discussion upon the question of a proposed federal workingmen's compensation act was resumed at this morning's session of the Railway Brotherhood of the Pacific convention. The discussion has been upon whether the organization shall favor a compulsory or an optional law. A third course, according to President W. G. Lee, is that the convention may decide not to endorse any form of compensation law.

The proposed compensation law would not only fix amounts of benefits definitely, but would relieve the prospective beneficiary from the necessity of proving the responsibility for the accident of the defendant employer as required by the existing federal liability law.

REUNION OF INDIANA ELKS OF LAFAYETTE

Lafayette, Ind., May 27.—Visiting members of the order of Elks took Lafayette by storm today on the occasion of the opening of their annual state reunion and convention. The initial session of the convention was held in Elks Hall this morning, and was devoted to the exchange of greetings and the work of organization. The day's program included numerous features of entertainment. The street parade, which is the big spectacle of the gathering, will take place tomorrow afternoon.

ENGLISH SOVEREIGNS TERMINATE THEIR VISIT IN GERMANY

Berlin, May 27.—King George and Queen Mary of England terminated their visit today with a review of the guard army corps which was holding its spring parade at Potsdam. The review was followed by a gala luncheon at the Potsdam palace. Their majesties left for England late in the afternoon.

No confirmation was obtainable of the report received from London that Emperor William is to visit Portsmouth in August, escorted by a squadron of German warships.

IOWA SHOOTING TOURNAMENT OPENED TODAY

Fort Dodge, Ia., May 27.—Half a hundred crack shots of national reputation faced the traps here today at the opening of the annual state trap shooting tournament of the Iowa Sportsmen's Association. The tournament program this year covers three days. The target card calls for ten events of fifteen targets each.

JUNE THE MONTH OF WEDDINGS

The pleasure of giving as well as the joy of receiving depends greatly upon the amount of thought and personal interest in selecting a gift. In presenting an appropriate, well-chosen gift the idea of dollars and cents value is secondary, as it properly should be.

Now that June, the season of many weddings, is approaching it is well for those contemplating the purchase of gifts to begin their selection and decide upon what they will give and receive.

THE GAZETTE, advertising columns offer many suggestions that are timely and valuable. A careful reading of these columns will undoubtedly solve the perplexing question of "what to give."

Using THE GAZETTE advertisements as a guide one not only makes sure of covering a wide variety of possible gifts, but also greatly simplifies the actual purchasing and sending of presents.

GOVERNOR REFUSES TO SIGN BILL PROVIDING FOR AN OTHER SUFFRAGE RE- FERENDUM IN 1914.

LAST VOTE DECISIVE
Points to Defeat of Suffrage Amendment by 92,000 Majority in 1912
As a Sufficient Reason—Respect Popular Verdict.

Madison, Wis., May 27.—Governor McGovern today vetoed the bill ordering a referendum in 1914 on the question of extending the ballot to Wisconsin women. The governor objects to the bill on the ground that suffrage having been defeated by a majority of 92,000 in Wisconsin last November another referendum on the subject so soon would be unwise and would result only in a more emphatic rejection. He also argues that affirmative action on suffrage is a mistake can never be corrected while unfavorable action may be made by any time.

"Should Respect Referendum Verdict."

"Wisconsin stands for popular rule," says the message, "but if the referendum is a good thing, manifestly the results of the popular vote should be properly respected. Such respect will not be shown if almost as soon as the outcome of last year's vote upon this subject has been announced exactly the same proposal be immediately re-submitted for a single new fact or argument to support it. A referendum by the legislature can have but one tendency, that of speedily bringing the principle of the referendum into disrepute. I do not consider that enactment of this bill, providing as it does for a vote next year, is consistent with the deliberate judgment of the people of this state, so recently and so fully registered."

The veto was a surprise and an attack will be made to put the bill through over the head of the governor.

His Reason.

"The Senate."

"I must hasten, without approval, bill No. 225, entitled 'An act to amend section 12 of the statutes, extending the right of suffrage to women.'"

"In the recent presidential election a proposal to extend suffrage to women was defeated in this state by a majority of over 92,000 votes. Immediately to resubmit, precisely the same question for determination by the voters at the next legislative election cannot be justified."

Article 3, section 1 of the Constitution of Wisconsin enumerates the classes of persons entitled to vote and contains the following:

"Provided that the legislature may at any time extend by law the right of suffrage to persons not herein enumerated, but no such law shall have force until the name shall have been placed on the list of the people at a general election, and approved by a majority of all the votes cast at such election."

The Method.

"The method whereby a change in this part of the constitution may be secured thus differs from that bringing about amendment of any other portion of our fundamental law, mainly in requiring favorable legal action at a single session of the legislature instead of by the concurrence of two succeeding legislatures in support of a joint resolution. But here as in other cases the popular vote must be taken at a general election, and the next succeeding general election, not at a general election. In other words this legislature may provide by law for the resubmission of this question at the November election in 1914, 1916, or any later time."

No Good Reason.

"It seems to me no good reason can be given for the immediate resubmission of the proposed amendment. Since the decisive vote of last November the general sentiment of the people with respect to woman suffrage in Wisconsin has not changed. At least nothing has occurred to justify a belief that the issue were immediately resubmitted to the people. It is not against it would now be even larger than before. The result of the recent election in Michigan is some indication that this would be the case. From the fact that the referendum was defeated at a general election, it is our people do not consider the pervasiveness of the Rocky Mountain states, such as Colorado, Idaho, and Wyoming, relevant or even enlightening."

By Example.

"Very recently, however, other states, comparable to our own in population, social conditions, and industrial development, such as Kansas, California, and Washington, have decided to try the experiment. The experience is yet altogether too brief to afford any indication of what we should do. If this question be again forced upon the people of Wisconsin by decision at the next November election, 1914, they will be compelled to act upon it with no more information to guide them than they had last year. If, however, the vote be deferred until the next general election, 1916, at least the experience of other states similar in many respects to our own may furnish guidance not available now. It would seem therefore to be the part of wisdom to wait until we can avail ourselves of the instruction to be derived from the trial of woman suffrage in these states before we again vote upon this question."

Popular Rule.

"But this is not all. Wisconsin stands for popular rule. We have faith in the judgment and good sense of the average voter. We believe in the initiative and the referendum. But if the referendum is a good thing, manifestly the results of a referendum vote should be properly respected. Such respect will not be shown if almost as soon as the outcome of last year's vote upon this subject has been announced exactly the same proposal be immediately resubmitted without a single new fact or argument to support it. Such action by the legislature can have but one tendency—that of speedily bringing the principle of the referendum into disrepute."

Not Desired.

"An additional reason against hasty action in this matter is that an extension of suffrage, such as this bill proposed once made is practically irrevocable. It is a step that once taken cannot easily be retraced. No matter how erroneous such a decision (Continued on page 2.)"

WRINKLES.
By Howard L. Rann.

Wrinkles are a form of facial frescoing with which nature embosses people who worry. Some people worry more than others and are embossed to such an extent that they look like a bas-relief map of ancient Jerusalem.

The wrinkle is composed of several deep dimples, which are strung together. Everybody admires a dimple, but when a number of them come together, a dimple in producing a wrinkle the owner invests in a bottle of skin food and a rubber massage roller.

Wrinkles are caused by a variety of conflicting emotions.

Such as worry
over a fit of a new gown, anxiety over the corn crop or fear lest the bread will burn. It doesn't require much effort to produce a set of wrinkles that can hardly be told from the epitaph
of Ramezes II, as all that is necessary is to sit down and fret over something that might happen thirty years ahead.

The most fastidious form of wrinkle is known as the crow's foot. This is a deep convolution of decorative design which is so adhesive that the ordinary cosmetic will turn tail and flee.
Crowsfeet seldom settle on the young but locate with great energy on the cheekbone of age. Some society people grow crowsfeet at the age of forty, due to studying a bridge hand
until three o'clock in the morning, and would be glad to exchange them for a mild, domesticated mode or some other unobtrusive blemish.

Wrinkles are sometimes caused by wearing spectacles fitted by an eye specialist who graduated from a glass-blowing factory. This produces wrinkles which mingle at the bridge of the nose and enable the owner to pass them off as man's evidences of deep thought. Many a man is wearing a set of encrusted wrinkles due to the astigmatic nose glass and getting by with the neighbors on the score of studious habits.

THE FRANKLIN CLUB
AND ITS PURPOSES
FULLY DESCRIBED

The Organization of Printers of The Rock River Valley Not to Boost
Prices But to Give Better Service.

The organization of the Rock River Valley Ben Franklin club will mean much to the printing trade throughout this section of the state. Burt Hoard
the president of the association describes the purpose of the organization in the following article.

"There was held Friday of last week in the library of the Gazette
office at Janesville, the last open charter meeting of the Rock River Valley
Ben Franklin club at which all editors,
Ben Franklin printers in the Rock River Valley were urged to attend accompanied by their foreman or any other representative they wished. These meetings are always educational and are worth a great deal to every printer."

Several very interesting propositions were taken up at this meeting.
One was the idea of extending the work by meeting each time at a new point of vantage. A tentative plan included sessions at Watertown, Rockford, Beloit and Janesville—in fact wherever there is a prospect of adding new members and of doing educational work. These meetings are valuable and suggestive of beneficial action outside the club that it might be profitable to invite the manufacturers and other large customers at each point to see and hear Manufacturers of other articles use the club systems just as badly as do the printers. A large amount of printing could be secured by assisting patrons to develop cost systems of their own.

Most Customers Fairminded.
There may justly be some opposition to this plan but it appears that the Rock River Valley Ben Franklin club cannot become too select or exclusive without exciting suspicion on the part of the public and that the very objects for which it was formed. In our opinion it is better to take the ground that every printer is entitled to a fair living profit above the cost of his work and that the printer who considers his customers do not begrudge him a fair profit. It only remains to devise some plan to checkmate the other 5 per cent of customers who show a wolfish desire to get the last drop of blood out of the printer. It has always been the case that an expert "shopper" could get his work done at a price which meant that his victim gave him actual money (depreciation and personal salary in addition to the job itself. All he had to do was to skillfully rub the ears
of competing printers and the rest was easy. His vanity afterward made him brag of his skill in getting the printers to those prices, thereafter becomes a jest among their customers.

No Combination as to Prices.
No printer need refrain from coming to this organization because he fears there will be some combination
as to prices. There will be none whatever. The only combination will be for education regarding the intricate problems that govern business.
Under the many unsatisfactory
other things printing costs vary so much as to create a feeling of despair in a printer when he is called upon for an estimate. The printer feels that he is being deceived by tracing the work through to delivery is always in doubt as to his guess on a job after it is given, and he is but little better able to judge than his customer as to costs, without a minute system of cost finding and in the sequence of this doubt the wolfish customer fairly lives on his flesh while the generous customer is overcharged. The Ben Franklin Club System, which has been developed in most of the printing offices of the country and is now spreading out in to all sorts of manufacturing enterprises is designed to cure this evil
and to put certainty in place of uncertainty.

Origin of Cost Finding.
It is claimed that this cost-finding idea originated with the printing industry. It is doubtful if they can lay claim to the original basic principle.
This is because, in the early days,

many years ago.

However printers in the Ben Franklin Association may justly be credited with having so minutely investigated manufacturing costs that they have brought into the white light nearly all the unprofitable things of the business and further by comparison of a multitude of methods have evolved
a system of manufacture that integrates each part so nicely with every other that costs in some cases have been cut in half.

Bankers Push the Cost System.

Entirely Rid of All Skin Eruptions.

Warrenville, O.—"I have felt the effects of blood poisoning for eighteen years. I was never without some eruptions on my body.
The terrible itching caused me much suffering and discomfort, while the rubbing
and scratching made it worse.

"Last spring I had a terrible breaking out of blistery sores on my arms and limbs. My face and arms were almost covered with rash. I could not sleep and lost nineteen pounds in five weeks.
My face was terribly red and sore, and felt as if my skin was on fire. At last I tried a sample of Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment and I found them so cool, soothing and healing that I got some Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Resolvent.
I bathed with hot water and Cuticura soap,
then I applied the Cuticura Ointment every night for two months, and I am entirely cured of all skin eruptions." (Signed) Mrs.

SEALER IS NOTIFIED OF NEW REGULATIONS

Soft Paint Coating on Weights is Prohibited—Requirements as to Measuring Tanks.

Walter Helms, City Sealer of Weights and Measures, has been informed by Chief Inspector F. P. Dowling of new regulations which are to go into effect immediately and are to be rigidly enforced. One of the purposes of the new regulations is to weights with a thick coat of soft paint. Experience has convinced the state department that such a coat soon wears off and on rotating the scale is found to be below the department's tolerances. Weights may be nickled, janned, or plain finished.

Measuring tanks for liquids that are provided with an adjustable notched bar indicating the amount to be delivered shall be such adjustable bar so constructed that it cannot be moved without breaking a seal attached to it by the sealer of weights and measures. When a bar or rod is inserted in the liquid measure to indicate the level to which the liquid in city is measured, the bar or rod shall not exceed one-eighth of an inch in thickness. The regulation concerning measuring tanks was issued because a certain Pennsylvania automatic can company put in a claim to the department that its regulation on pumps could not be interpreted to include their self-measuring oil tanks.

This company has not made any attempt to comply with the regulation relating to oil pumps and the notched bar or rod that indicates the amount of liquid to be drawn from the tank
can be easily tampered with by dishonest merchants.

City Sealer Helms reports that he has yet found no violation of the new regulations with which a few days test the weights and scales used by the old iron and junk dealers of the city and go over some of the field
he covered first last year.

ST. PAUL OFFICIALS PLAN
BIG SAFETY RALLY HERE

At the meeting of the division safe-committee a month ago it was decided that Janesville would be the next place where the general committee held their first gathering and held a big safety rally at the new convenient building at N. P. Thebrud, superintendent of the Mineral Point division, stated while in the city-viewed that the meeting will be held in the new building at N. P. Thebrud, chairman of the general safety committee would not be able to attend
the meeting if held within the next week. The officials plan to hold their meeting at the N. P. Thebrud building, having speakers and possibly motion pictures in an effort to create added interest among the railroad employees and the public.

BRAKEMEN AND CONDUCTORS MUST WEAR BLACK SHOES

An order was received by the brakemen and conductors of the La Crosse division to the effect that they must not wear the proper shoes to go with their uniforms and hereafter are to wear only black shoes while on duty. The ruling is causing considerable comment and ire in the hearts of the employees.

In the past it has been the custom of the conductor or brakeman to wear
black shoes and when D. E. Rossiter, trainmaster on the La Crosse division saw a brakeman on duty wearing a brilliant yellow pair of tan pumps,
which made a ridiculous contrast with his somber blue uniform, causing comment among the passengers.
The brakeman promptly told all the people that it was none of their business what kind of shoes he wore.

When the officials of the road were told of the conduct of the brakeman
the order was issued that all conductors and brakemen should wear more conservative in their styles. Local railroad men are wearing tan shoes in peace, as yet, but a similar order
may be enforced throughout the line.
One Janesville conductor expressed himself in wonder what would happen if the brakemen had worn one of the new green hats with a cute bow in the rear. Needless to say no brakeman would dare wear one of these creations.

CORN PLANTED LATE AT BEST ADVANTAGE

Some Facts About the Corn Crop and
A Few Hints as to Its Care in The Early Stages of Development.

(By Noyes R. Raessler.)

The heavy rains which we are getting so frequently, together with the cool weather makes it extremely difficult for the young plants to push its way through the surface.

The young corn can do to help
this along is to harrow the surface continually while the ground is in condition to permit this work.

By this I mean
to wait long enough after every rain so the horses will not pack the ground
and thus retard
the growth of the corn.

This harrowing process also serves the purpose of destroying the weeds
which are beginning to appear in abundance.

This has been a bad year for early planting.
Corn planted during the next few days
will do much better than that planted
early in May.

If the ground is not fitted yet, take just as much pains in its preparation
as you would if you still had a month to do it in. Above all do not hurry
for any part of the work that is done carelessly now may cost you many bushels in yield at harvest time.

Now while we are waiting for the corn to come up let us stop a moment to consider the influence the corn crop has upon the human family.

If a nation has no other claim to greatness, Indian corn would cause it to rank among the foremost nations of the world.

Corn furnishes food to a larger part of the human family than any other crop. In 1911 the United States produced over 3,125,000,000 bushels of corn, and it took seven million men to plant, grow and harvest the crop.

Add only one cent per bushel and it means an increase of profit of $31, 125,000 to the American farmer.

The corn crop of United States is worth twelve times as much as the products of her gold mines. It is three times as large as the production of all the gold mines in the world, and is greater in value than all other crops combined.

In the near future, I will tell how the crop is consumed and the different uses we make of the grain, cob, husk and stalk.

M'GOVERN USES VETO TO DEFEAT SUFFRAGE

may later prove to be, no matter how soon the people may discover it to be a mistake, or how clearly its unwise-ness may be demonstrated, the privilege of suffrage once conferred cannot readily be recalled. Opposed to such a repeal would stand not only
most of its former champions and supporters, but all the newly enfranchised voters, whatever their opinions might have been prior to the change, who very naturally would resent its subsequent withdrawal as a reflection upon themselves. So women suffrage may be defeated again
and again without being finally denied; but let it once carry and the contest will be at an end.

Not Precipitately.
It is a change therefore that should not be made precipitately or at a time when only a part of the voters are likely to go to the polls. This undoubtedly was the view entertained
by the last legislature when it submitted the question to popular vote at a presidential election. Then the fullest and truest expression of public opinion may be had. Then the largest vote is cast. At such an election last November the proposal contained in this bill was submitted
and was overwhelmingly rejected.

Were an attempt now made to resubmit it at the presidential election in 1916, I should not feel justified in withholding my approval. But I do not consider that the enactment of this bill, providing as it does for a vote next year, when it is unlikely there will be an full attendance at the polls, is consistent with a proper respect for the deliberate judgment of the people of the state, so recently and fully registered.

At Later Date.
If there is to be reconsideration of the vote upon this matter taken last fall, it should be later and at an election where the popular vote will be equally large and unobscured. No other course will prove in the end
either satisfactory or defensible.

There is nothing to prevent the present legislature from doing this by providing now for the submission of this question at the presidential election in 1916. If this bill so provided
I should sign it; but I cannot approve it in its present form.

FOR HORSE KILLED

George W. Keylock, Plaintiff, of Union Township, Granted Judgment of $100 From Burr Tolles.

Judgment for $100 and costs against Burr Tolles of Evansville, was granted George W. Keylock of the town of Union in Justice Charles Lange's court late yesterday afternoon.

The case being damages sustained by Mr. Keylock as the result of Mr. Tolles shooting a horse belonging to him
and upon the charge of trespass.

Mr. Tolles, through his attorney,
A. Avery, his own testimony and that of witnesses, endeavored to prove that he shot the animal in pursuing his duties as Humane Officer, and that the killing was justifiable as the animal was suffering great agony and was incurably ill or hurt. The efforts of the plaintiff, who was represented by Attorney Thomas S. Nolan, were refused and the claims that the killing of the horse was justified, the case
did not go to the jury for decision as previously intended. The defendant
may appeal the judgment.

Dick Arast, the ex-emption sculler, has announced his permanent retirement from rowing. He has purchased a large motor launch and intends to become a professional fisherman.

Seems to be a bad year for umpires in the American league. The new crew is not as good as in the past. Ferguson and Hart getting their bumps daily. The veterans, O'Loughlin and Connelly, also appear to be losing their grip. All of which makes Billy Evans the star man.

Ray Bates, signed by Cleveland as a third sacker, is being tried out at first place and if Doc Johnston falls off in his clutching, Bates will land his job. Bates is from the Virginia league and has the natural qualifications of a first baseman.

The Western clubs of the American league won thirty and lost twenty-eight games in the inter-sectional series with the eastern teams. Only one of the eastern clubs was able to do better than break even that was Philadelphia. Chicago won eight and lost five contests.

After making a record for scoreless innings and winning ten in a row, Walter Johnson got the worst defeat of his major career from Cleveland Thursday—a 5 to 0 shutout. Johnson was laced for 13 drives. And on a dark day, too.

JOE DAWSON WILL PILOT CAR FRIDAY

Joe Dawson, Kid Driver, Winner of Last Year's Classic, Will Again Try for Indianapolis Sweepstakes.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 27.—Joe Dawson, the driver who won the 500-mile sweepstakes race here last year, will probably drive a machine in the third annual automobile race on Memorial Day. It was announced last night the contest board of the American Automobile Association last night refused to license the inventor of one of the cars to drive in the race on the ground that he lacked experience. Dawson, it was said, would steer his machine.

The elimination trial will start this morning and continue until 6 o'clock Thursday night. Each car must do 75 miles an hour and meet certain technical requirements in various dimensions. Referee A. R. Pardington of New York, who will have charge of the race, arrived last night and will direct the preliminary contest. Tonight the drivers will be instructed in the rules governing the event.

For the first time in the history of the race the tracks will be used the day before the race. This has been necessary by rain yesterday. Heretofore the track has been closed the day preceding the contest in order to put it in shape for the event. Instructions were issued last night that no car would be allowed to cross the track after midnight Thursday until the race is over.

Miss Helen Scott, who has been making her home here with her sister, Mrs. W. H. Latta, while attending school, will return to her home, about eight miles north of town, in about two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Pease drove to Harvard, Sunday morning, returning in the evening.

The manual training class have had their work on exhibition in A. J. Borden's drug store windows and yesterday afternoon the judges picked the winners of first and second place in each class; of the Sophomore class Leonard Hamilton won 1st; Hobart French 2nd; Homer Kizer 3rd.

All the work was exceptionally fine and it took close studying by the judges to determine the ones that had done a little the closer work and all great credit for making the attempt and carrying the work through to completion.

—Morning Session.

It was a sleepy looking jury which having spent the night in being selected, fled into court today to listen to the story of the Roosevelt-Newell libel suit. The lawyers looked sleepy, so did the reporters and many of the spectators, although it was expected that Colonel Roosevelt would testify.

Despite their late vigil the jurymen all hard working men accustomed to early hours were stirring with the daylight in the jury room where they spent the night and where they must remain isolated until a verdict has been reached.

Deputy Sheriff James Jamerson and under Sheriff Bennett whose duty it is to care for the twelve men were routed out to hasten breakfast to their charges. Crowds gathered early at the court house to be well up in the line when after those who were particularly entitled to attend the doors were opened to the public until all seats were filled.

Col. Roosevelt took the stand at 9:30 this morning.

RAILWAY BUSINESS FOR MARCH.

For the month of March the operating income per mile of line decreased 31.3 per cent for the railways of the east, increased 6.6 per cent for the railways of the south and increased 9.4 per cent for the railways of the west as compared with March, 1912. The average for the railways of the entire country decreased 9.9 per cent.

This operating income for the 222,086 miles of line summarized by the Bureau of Railway Economics from the reports of the railways to the Interstate Commerce Commission aggregated for the month $52,137,897, or $235 per mile of line, which is equivalent to $7.57 per mile of line per day. Operating income is that proportion of their receipts which remains available to the railways for rentals, interest on bonds, appropriations for betterments, improvements, new construction and for dividends.

The aggregate of the total operating revenues for the month was $241,048,818, an increase of $9,864,272 over March, 1912. The operating expenses were $178,224,167, or $14,104,236 more than for March, 1912. The net operating revenue was $62,824,651, or $43,293,964 less than for March, 1912. Taxes were $10,418,258, an increase of 7.7 per cent per mile of line over March, 1912, leaving the operating income 9.9 per cent less per mile of line as stated.

This statement shows the condition that the railroads of the country are in, and it will be noticed that while the volume of business shows a good increase, that expenses are piling up still faster, and as a result a loss of about ten per cent follows.

The roads are tied hand and foot by state and federal regulation. Their stocks and bonds have come to be a by-word to such an extent that they are no longer able to finance much-needed extensions and betterments, and unless relief comes to them, many of them will be in the hands of receivers within the next twelve months.

While the budget of railway expenses is as long as the moral law, there are only two sources of revenue, namely the passenger and freight payments. In the former, the two-cent fare has been so generally demanded that it is almost universally adopted.

The urgent demand for more money has caused fifty-four roads to unite in a plea to congress for permission to advance freight rates five per cent, and there is every reason why the request should be granted.

The American people are a fair-minded people. They have no desire to cripple a great industry, and if the question could be intelligently put before them, they would vote to a man to relieve the situation.

While a five per cent advance in freight rates means a volume of money to the railroads, it means so little to the individual that he would never know it.

The fact is worth remembering that these great transportation companies are liberal employers of labor. They have met advance after advance in wage scales and no wage-earner can afford to oppose them in their struggle for existence. They are entitled to fair treatment at the hands of the people's servants, who are selected to make our laws, and common justice demands that they receive it.

business man and while serving in the state senate discovered the fact that public business was being very loosely handled.

After becoming governor this thought was so forcefully impressed that he started a crusade of reformation which has culminated in a bill providing for an amendment to the constitution, and which practically provides for putting the state under commission rule.

Both houses of the Kansas legislature are paid one hundred and fifty dollars for a fifty day session. The composition of the lower house is very much the same as other states, and new and inexperienced men are largely in the majority. They are under the dictation of a few old-timers, who make politics a business, and the senate is in about the same condition.

As a result much of the legislation is ill-advised and harmful, and the state suffers in consequence. The criticism is not so much graft as inefficiency, and this goes on year after year, with no attempt to remedy the evil.

Wisconsin is a fair sample just now of inefficiency turned loose, as the taxpayers are finding out to their sorrow. While Kansas is cutting down the number of its commissions, Wisconsin is going to the other extreme, and a law was passed, the other day, permitting these commissions unlimited authority in hiring help. This will add an army of patriots to the payroll.

The governor of Kansas proposes to abolish both houses of the legislature and create a single house. Instead, composed of one or possibly two men from each congressional district, elected for a term of six years, and paid a salary sufficient so that all of their time can be devoted to the interests of the state, the governor to be an ex-officio member.

The argument advanced is that the public business should be handled as intelligently as any private business, and this can only be done through intelligent methods, and one of the first steps is to divorce politics from state government.

Of course, politicians will oppose the plan, as they are, already doing, but the belief is entertained that the people will endorse it. If they do, the Sunflower state will bear watching, for the reform is practical, and capable of great results.

NEED GOOD MEN.

With the radical changes that are taking place in the police and fire departments, the need of good men for the vacancies is apparent to all. Care should be taken to select only candidates that are known to be reliable. Men with record of inefficiency in past positions of trust should not be considered for a moment. The advent of Ensign Ransom, as chief of police, the resignation of Officers Brown and Dorn from the force, has complicated matters considerably. Mr. Ransom, however, can be depended upon to bring order out of chaos and he has the confidence of the commission and citizens who know him personally. He is a strong man of sterling qualities, has an excellent record as sheriff and previous to that as a farmer and business man, but at present he needs good men to serve under him; and it is up to the fire and police commission to see that he gets them. No man whose record is not clean should be even suggested for the position of patrolman. Each candidate should be investigated carefully before appointed so that no mistakes will be made. It is a crucial period with the police department and now is the time to avoid mistakes.

The resignation of Sim Dora as patrolman is to be regretted by all classes of citizens who have confidence in the police department. He was a faithful, hard-working officer, conscientious in the performance of duty, using good judgment, and capable. It is to be regretted that he has seen fit to tender his resignation just at this time when good men are needed to enforce the laws.

Advertising.
In the words of the great and celebrated Greek philosopher Erysipelas, "Faith, Hope and Advertising. These three, but the greatest of these is advertising."
Advertising covers a multitude of sins.
But at the same time it is a magnificent power for good.
When we are little boys we carve our initials in the old maple tree. That is advertising.
We write our names in hymn books. That is advertising.
When we grow up we go to grand opera and get our names in the society column. That is advertising.
When we die, we have some fine obituary poetry and a splendid epitaph is engraved upon our tombstone. That is advertising.
The man who invented the tombstone epitaph was the first great exponent of fake advertising.
Here lie the bones of Abner Jones.
A man we all knew well.
He died one day, and now they say that he has gone to heaven.
It's a poor rhyme, but it's a good ad.
When a walking stick is lost by a young man with a solid ivory head, he does not find it again unless he advertises.
When a piano is for sale by an old gentleman with beautifully carved legs, he must put the public next to the fact of he keeps the piano.

Like whiskey, all advertising is good, only some sorts are better than others.
The time was when virtue was its own reward, but that time has gone by.
Nowadays if a man doesn't advertise his virtues judiciously the public will not believe that he has any.
We are not a nation of modest blushing violets and if we were it would not be a reflection upon us any more; for even the blushing violets have lost its modesty and now retail for $2 a hundred.
The only form of advertising that doesn't pay is a rum blossom on a minister's nose.
When you have passed away, my friend,
And some day you must die,

And you will be remembered—
And laud you to the sky.

You read this vale of tears,
You should not be obliged to wait
For seven hundred years.
You want your fame while you're alive
And hearty and well fed,
You can't afford to wait for it
Till after you are dead.

Unless you put 'em wise,
You want your laurel wreaths right now.

Heart to Heart Talks

GET THE SUCCESS HABIT.
There is a whole lot in atmosphere and attitude.
Like attracts like. The man who looks prosperous and acts prosperous will attract prosperity.
Get the success habit. It is irrefragable.

The shrinking man will usually have a shrinking trade.
In the language of a former president, "buck the line hard." Even the man you buck up against will like you the better for it.
I remember once hearing a very expressive line, "Play up and play the game."
If you are going to get in the game at all you have to play it for all you are worth.
I once heard of a business man who was down to his last $3. He fortunately had a dress suit left, however, so he arrayed himself in his glad habitment, spent his last $3 for a ticket at a swell theater, sat beside a man with whom he got into conversation and succeeded in interesting this man in a business deal that put the chap who had spent his last three back on his feet.
He kept his nerve and played the game. He had the success habit.
Psychology may count for more than capital.
Often the chief use of cash is to put a man in the right mental attitude to get more. He should have the mental attitude, however, even if he lacks the cash.
After all, your mental capital is your chief asset. Don't get bankrupt in that, whatever may happen to your bank account.
Look like a winner. If you do the doorman to the temple of success may think you belong inside and let you pass.

Change in Grocery Firm

Mr. G. Abraham, formerly connected with the firm of Mahoney & Newman, has purchased the business of Nolan Bros. on South River street. This store has always been run as a strictly Cash Business and it is the intention of the present owners to continue along the same line.

They expect to install in the near future a first class Meat Market. The addition of Mr. Abraham to this business will make a strong and aggressive firm and the already large business enjoyed by the old firm will be pushed to the fullest extent.

Both members of the new firm will be pleased to maintain the pleasant business relations with all of the customers of the old firm and hope by square dealing and unequalled service to add many new customers to their already large list of business friends.

INTEREST DISPLAYED IN THE RESULT OF HEARING THURSDAY

Janesville Will Be Well Represented at the Hearing in Madison on Question of State Fair Location.

That the legislative committee having charge of the question of moving the state fair from Milwaukee and locating it in some other city in the state, will fully understand the needs of Janesville is not only certain, but the plans now outlined by the "boosters" committee that will go to Madison Thursday are carried out.

The question of the location of the grounds for the fair within a block of the center of the city, the excellence of the mile and half mile tracks, already made and considered among the fastest in the middle west, the fact that all the grounds needed for the fair can be bought at a moderate figure immediately adjacent to the present site, will all be taken care of, by one speaker. The ease with which the tracks can be run directly to the grounds by both railroads, the fact that Janesville is on the direct line of both the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road and the Chicago and North Western running from Minneapolis to St. Paul, where the Minnesota state fair is held, will be explained, giving great facility for shipping stock and exhibits both into Janesville and then southward to the Illinois state fair, as well as to the Columbus tracks of the last horses, will be taken up in detail.

The railroad facility for handling the crowds arriving in the city and taking them away again at night, the fact that Janesville is accessible from all parts of the state by the two lines of railroad and their various divisions running into the city, will be shown; the fact that over a hundred trains arrive and depart daily at present and that during fair week extra trains can be utilized, with the big sorting yards of the Northwestern and the new yards of the St. Paul, ready to care for all extra cars brought into the city, will be mentioned.

Also the question of caring for the crowds in the city after their arrival, the hotels, boarding houses, restaurants and sleeping accommodations will all be shown in detail, as the fact that those who prefer to go to Beloit can do so in a few minutes by interurban, or even to Rockford or Edgerton, it will be shown that Janesville can care for the biggest kind of a crowd that will stay over night while the excellence of the train service will permit many to return home the same night to return the next day if they desire, cheaper if anything than if they remain in the city over night.

The fact that Janesville is the center of the richest agricultural region of the state, that it is one of the centers of the population of the state, as well as having the rich northern Illinois wheat and corn country, will be demonstrated to the advantage of Janesville and should not fail to impress the committee holding the hearing.

The party will leave Janesville on the St. Paul road just before eight Thursday morning to be in time for the hearing which will be held at ten and it is expected that aside from the speakers there will be a large delegation of citizens who will use their influence by their presence and work among the legislators generally.

FINE FIVE FARMERS FOR SELLING MILK IN DEFECTIVE CANS

All Plead Guilty to Complaint of Dairy Inspector—Pay Minimum Fine of $25 and Costs.

Five farmers, residents of the towns of Plymouth and Center, plead guilty before Judge Field in the municipal court this morning to selling or having in their possession for sale milk in cans that were defective and unsanitary, in violation of the state laws governing the sale of milk. Complaint was made by H. G. Larson, a dairy inspector, and the papers were satisfied yesterday by Deputy Sheriff John Constable. The men charged with the offense were George Jones, Herman Wilson, George Elze, George Schumaker, and Charles Lawrence. All plead guilty and were given the minimum sentence of $25 and costs, making the amount paid by some of them over $300.

The severity of the sentence, though the mildest that the judge could impose, was an unpleasant surprise to the farmers, some of whom regretted that they had not decided to fight the case and ask for jury trial so as to have the satisfaction of showing their side if not obtaining acquittal from a jury. All prepared to pay their fines.

The defects in the cans which it is alleged made them unsanitary and "open seams" were collected dirt and cannot be cleaned out. The farmers feel that they should have been informed of the provisions of the law and given an opportunity to comply with the same before being hauled into court and fined.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

BLOW is a letter which came to me too late to be used in our "spunk symposium," but which is too good not to pass on: "I nearly spunk you little girl," writes my letter friend, "and last night was the first time I ever did so without having her on the carpet and giving her a fair trial. In this way I usually convince her that she should be punished. Sometimes of course I lose my case, but why shouldn't I. She has often shown me that I was wrong."

"Yesterday, business was dull, collections were 'rotten' and notes and drafts were due. I was in a very good mood when I came home to dinner last night and of course, 'like a man,' gave vent to my wrath on my family. I went and called our little girl several times from the cellar door. At last she came and when I asked her why she had not come sooner she replied that she had heard me only twice and that she never forget the puzzled and worried look on my face and there and much more severely than I would have done had I followed my old plan. A few minutes later Mrs. S. asked me what the row was about. I said our daughter had lied to me. Still weeping my child came to me and said: 'No daddy, I did not and when you feel to heaven you can ask God and He will tell you that I only heard you twice.' That convinced me and I certainly felt ashamed of myself and expressed my regret and sorrow to the one I had wronged."

Please observe the fine justice this father showed in always discussing the offense with his daughter, but please more especially observe this frank confession, "and of course 'like a man' I gave vent to my wrath on my family."

For a man not to vent his annoyance at business troubles upon his family is an almost unknown thing. But for a man to admit that he does this is still more rare.

A little girl in a family of my acquaintance has a trick of creeping up behind her father and clasping her hands over his eyes, asking him to guess who it is. He always laughs and romps with her when she does this, but the other day he had just opened a batch of bills when his daughter played her little trick. With a sharp "Don't do that again!" he pushed her away. I shall never forget the puzzled and worried look—spanning the look a dog gives when he is unexpectedly struck—which she gave her father.

That was one of her first lessons in the injustice of grown up folks. I say grown up folks, because I suppose women do vent their personal troubles on those who are not to blame for them, but it does seem to me they are not so apt to do this as men. Anyhow, for both sexes here is a bit of advice. If you must vent your troubles on some one, vent them on a dog. Grown-ups can understand better. Don't spoil a child's sense of justice by punishing him for your personal troubles.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Will you kindly give me a recipe for making angel food cake?

L. G. W.
Angel Food—Whites of 9 large or 10 small eggs, pinch of salt added to eggs, 1-1/4 cups gran. sugar, 1-2 teasps. cream of tartar, 1 cup flour, 1 tsp. vanilla. Beat eggs then add cream of tartar and beat again. Add sugar three times, add eggs and beat as stiff as possible. Add flour and stir as little as possible. Sift flour five times before adding. Have a pan with little less on top of pan. Put cake turn cake upside down to cool. Don't grease pan.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a young wife with no married life in this coming August. I have a good husband. He just treats me like a queen. He always buys the best of everything, swells clothes and diamonds, but only on fault. I have against him. He always likes to go out alone. He doesn't take me out very much and when he does go out alone, he stays out all the afternoon. I never know where to find him. I have just been looking for him. Would you advise me to do so? He gets very angry at me. He tells me to stay home where I belong, that he doesn't want me chasing around looking for him. Please give me your advice. How to treat him? (2) Is a jealous true love? (3) As I pass by the drug store where I buy all my drugs, the druggist always looks out of the window and speaks to me; then he says, "Is that proper?" He is a married man. (4) When walking on the street, in meeting a young man, what side is proper for the lady to walk on—the inside or the outside?

(1) Your husband is quite right not to want you chasing after him. He may be very busy, and he knows that people will laugh at both of you if he has no liberty. Attend to your own business, my dear, and let him attend to his. (2) No. It is selfishness. (3) You are probably a good customer and he is naturally pleasant to you. It's just good business on his part to be pleasant to you. (4) The woman walks on the inside.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

THE gentle art of being kind like mercy is twice blessed. It blesses him that gives as well as him that receives.

SUGGESTIVE HINTS.

When buying kitchen utensils wait for each new one until the money can be put into the good wearing aluminum, which will outwear ten cheap dishes. Aluminum dishes if food is burnt on them should never be scraped. Put cold water with a little soda in the dish and let it come to the boiling point, this will loosen the substance so that a wooden spoon can scrape it off.

Grated cheese over mashed potatoes will make a desirable change from the ordinary way of serving this dish. Blankets should be sunned and aired at least once a week.

Preserve your mattress by protecting it with an old quilt, laid over the springs.

When making tea remember to scald the pot and have it hot before adding the tea. The difference between a good cup of tea and an inferior, insipid one is often the manner of making it.

Chicken fat and beef drippings are good for shortening.

All dry cheese should be kept for grating. If put into a glass can and kept sealed it will always be ready to use.

Nuts, when bought ready shelled, should be washed, dried and kept in glass jars.

Dates and figs should both be washed and dried before using.

Wash lettuce and wrap in a towel, then lay in a cool place and it will keep crisp and be ready for instant use.

When stitching silk which slips, place a piece of tissue paper under it.

A tough piece of steak may be made tender by long, slow cooking. Add an onion for flavor and a cup of tomato just before serving.

Creamed Eggs.—Blend together two tablespoons of butter and two tablespoons of flour; when smooth, add a cup of thin cream and stir until boiling, season with red pepper, salt and add the yolks of two eggs; cut in quarters.

Ham Toast.—Chop a half pound of cooked ham, and mix it with one heaping tablespoonful of butter, one of parsley, two of cream, and a dash of paprika and red pepper. Add the well beaten yolks of three eggs, and when thick spread on buttered toast.

"Here We Have Not the Time."

The hotels of Europe come in for commendation from an observer, who points his moral with this incident:

"The European hotel manager who, at our departure, came to our cab door, bowing his thanks for our patronage and presenting Mrs. B. with a bouquet of roses, left us with a sense of pleasure and a desire to return which I have never experienced on leaving any hotel in this country."

Every Day Talks For Every Day People...

Last week while in Chicago for the Gazette I visited the home for crippled children at 2445 Vernon Ave. It is run in connection with the Fair Junior public school, that is it occupies rooms belonging to that building. The private charity, of several wealthy Chicago women keep it up. There are 87 children in attendance, ranging in age from five to 16 years. A bus goes every morning to each home and brings the children to the school as they are not able to walk well enough to come or go unaided.

The boys are taught manual training. One little chap was making a bird house. He was just finishing it and the pride of achievement glowed in his wan little face. He planned to set it up in the play ground. The birds will be very glad to have a house like this, he told me. For their little birds will not have to sit in a wet nest if it rains.

The girls are taught to sew and crochet. Little girls of eight and ten years were making beautiful lace; others aprons, while one girl was busy and happy making a cap for her grandma. They are all so happy and cheerful that as I looked at them a wave of shame swept over me, as I thought of how often I was dissatisfied. I who could get out and go where and when I liked. They have to be helped to get anywhere. Their cheerfulness would put more than I do shame. How many of us grumble over the tiniest trouble and if we haven't any real grievance we spend precious moments in making artificial ones. Anything to be sitting on the winner's bench; to be desecrating our homes and the bright sunshining days with our abominable croaking. Some of us seem to think it a badge of honor, this ability to always have a tab a lengthy tale of woe. We never stop to count our mercies. My no! We are too busy summing up our grievances, that are for the most part imaginary.

Let's be glad we are alive and well, and able to get out into the glorious out of doors. Let us say we haven't any woe. Remember we go this way but once, let us make a success of the trip, so that in the years that are to come when you and I are no longer young, on looking back over the path that we have trod we can turn our face towards man's one unchangeable foe serenity in knowledge that we have done our level best, and knowing this can rest content.

Domestic Science DEPARTMENT

CONDUCTED BY Mrs. Alice Mitchell Kirk

of orange or pineapple, or pineapple and grape juice, beverages in the summer are not such a serious problem after all.

Mint Lemonade.—half glass: water, half glass lemon syrup, two tablespoons; lemon half tablespoon; sugar, two teaspoons; cream de menthe, one teaspoon; mint, one sprig.

Put the shaved ice into the glass and add the lemon syrup, or the sugar dissolved in the lemon juice. Stir well, then add the remaining ingredients, decorating with the sprigs of mint standing upright in the glass and three straws. This is not only very refreshing but attractive as well.

Mint Punch.—Materials—Fresh mint sprigs, one dozen; shaved ice, one cup; sugar, one-quarter cup; lemon juice, two tablespoons; raspberry syrup, one cup; water, one quart.

Directions—Chop the mint fine, add to the ice and sugar. Put all into a shaker and shake hard until the sugar is dissolved, pour into a punch bowl and add the other ingredients and serve very cold.

Lemonade.—Materials—Sugar, one cup; water one pint; lemon juice, one-third cup. Directions—Boil sugar and water twelve minutes; cool and add juice and shaved ice, a slice of orange and pineapple.

Delight.—Materials—Sugar, one cup; grape juice, two cups; water, two cups; lemons, three or four.

Directions—Boil the sugar and water together three minutes; cool and add unsweetened grape juice and juice of one lemon and orange slices, served in a punch bowl and iced.

Then with shaved ice and a slice of orange and pineapple.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Things Worth Knowing.—Lemon peel should be pared off lemons very thinly. The pith under the peel is bitter and not to be used in cooking. Only the thin yellow rind and juice should be used.

To Clean Jewelry.—A teaspoonful of ammonia to a teaspoonful of water applied with a rag will clean silver and gold jewelry perfectly.

To Clean Colored Bedspreads.—Take a dish mop dampened with kerosene. Add two tablespoons of ammonia to each quart of water with which windows are washed.

The Table.—Whipped Cream Sauce—Whip to a stiff froth one cupful of thick cream. To the well-beaten whites of two eggs add one-half cupful of powdered sugar, mix well, stir in the whipped cream and one teaspoonful of vanilla or other flavoring. It should not be made more than a half hour before using.

Rhubarb Sauce.—To two pounds of rhubarb peeled and chopped, add sugar to taste and one-half cup of large seeded raisins. Boil until tender, remove from fire and add one cup of English walnut meats. This can be served with meats or used as a dessert.

Beet Top Greens with French Dressing.—Wash carefully and cook in boiling water as you do spinach, being sure to remove the heavy stems. When tender drain in a colander, chop and season with butter, salt and pepper. Arrange on lettuce leaves, garnish with hard-cooked eggs and serve with French dressing.

Nut Salad.—Five large apples pared and chopped fine, one cup hickory nuts chopped fine, flavor with vanilla, sweeten and arrange in the bread and butter cake and cover with whipped cream.

Brown Bread.—Two and one-half cups buttermilk (or sour milk), two teaspoons soda in milk, one-half cup New Orleans molasses, one-half cup brown sugar, four cups rye flour, one cup raisins, cut fine, one cup chopped walnut meats, one-fourth teaspoon salt. Set to raise for one hour, bake one hour in a slow oven.

Omelet.—Four fresh hot boiled potatoes are needed for the omelet. Press them through a ricer, add salt and pepper and four or five well-beaten eggs. Cook slowly in a well-greased frying pan, turning the bread and slice gently over and serving on a hot platter.

Marble Cake.—Three eggs, one and one-half cups sugar, one-half cup shortening, two-thirds cup sweet milk, three teaspoons baking powder, three cups flour. Take half a batter and add one teaspoon cocoa or chocolate, two teaspoons cinnamon, one-half teaspoon allspice; drop alternately spoon of light and dark in a well-greased loaf and bake in slow oven.

Potato Boulettes.—To pint of hot mashed potatoes whip in one large tablespoonful of butter, the beaten yolks of two eggs, a dash of cayenne, salt to taste, a few drops of onion juice and one tablespoonful of chopped parsley. Stir all over the fire until the mixture leaves the sides of the pan, then set aside to cool. Form them into medium-sized balls, dip each into slightly beaten egg, roll in fine crumbs and fry golden brown in smoking hot fat.

Ginger Cookies.—One cup of sugar, two cups molasses, one cup sour milk, one cup lard, one tablespoon ginger, three teaspoons soda, two eggs.

Cucumber and Onion Salad.—Pare small cucumbers and cut into thin slices. Skin and slice onions. Marinate thoroughly in French dressing, arrange on lettuce leaves and serve.

Rice Griddle Cakes.—One cup of left-over cooked rice, one cup of milk, one egg, one-half cup of flour, one-half teaspoonful of salt, and two teaspoonful of baking powder. If the rice is dry, soak it in the milk to soften it, then add the egg and the dry ingredients, sifted together. Beat well and cook on griddle. Serve with plenty of butter and syrup on brown sugar.

Poor Time for Pun.—"No matter how the case goes," said a court employee at the trial of a man named Lustig, when the case went to the jury, "the accused man will always be merry." When a verdict of guilty was announced and the prisoner showed signs of collapse the man was reminded of his prediction, and said: "He is merry still, and will be to the end, for Lustig is the German word for merry or jolly."

For goodness sake, use K C.

DINNER STORIES

During a conversation in Washington the other evening the topic turned to things ecclesiastical, which reminded Congressman Henry G. Danforth of New York of an incident that occurred in his state.

A new preacher had been called to one of the churches, and while on his way to the service one Sabbath evening he met a young man whom he had seen on one or two previous occasions.

"Isn't this Mr. Markings?" asked the dominie, stopping the young man and extending his hand. "Yes," came the answer from the newcomer, "I am the answer with a disconcerting promptness from the famous author."

"But isn't that—rather ungracious and ungallant," protested the fair inquisitor. "The novelist smiled. 'You must ask the ladies,' he suggested gently. 'It was their choice, not mine.'"

Discovery of Porcelain.—Porcelain was discovered by an alchemist who was seeking a mixture of earths that would make the most durable crucibles.

Phone The Grocer

Nexttime you phone the grocer ask him to send you a can of Van Houten's Rona Dutch Cocoa. Then make this simple test:

Put only one-half a teaspoonful of Rona into a cup into which you have put one-half the amount of sugar you usually use. Add boiling water and see how Rona Cocoa dissolves instantly. Just sip that rich, Dutch chocolate flavor. Now you can see why excels all domestic Cocos. In the first place, it's more economical—you use only half a teaspoonful to the cup. And then it's much richer, smoother, finer. That's because of the Dutch process.

Try this tonight. Phone the grocer and make the test.

ANNOUNCE WINNERS OF ESSAY CONTEST

SIGURD BRUE TAKES HIGH SCHOOL PRIZE AND HELEN DICKENSON GRADE
HONORS.

TOPICS OF INTEREST

Were Written on by Edgerton School Children in Competition for Prizes Given by L.
C. Whittier.

Edgerton, May 27.—Honors in the Whittier essay contest went to Sigurd Brue, a senior in the high school,
and to Helen Dickenson in the seventh grade. The articles were read at the mass meeting on Saturday evening.

Brue's paper on the subject
"What's the Matter With Edgerton," has some very creditable ideas which are presented in an excellent manner.
It is given below in full.

A stranger viewing the city of Edgerton would probably be impressed by certain peculiarities which perhaps would not soon be forgotten.

Using as a strong point the St. Paul depot, perhaps the first glance would bring the observer's attention to the abundance of tobacco warehouses.

Naturally he would be led to believe that the staple crop of the community is tobacco. Upon further investigation the visitor finds a thriving little city, with fairly good streets, good dwellings, and a pleasant situation.

To investigate the city ourselves,
we find that in industrially, and educationally it is equal to any city of its size, but we should not be content with being on a level with the standard; our object should be to make Edgerton a model city.

At present, the industrial, educational and social conditions are at fault;
this theme will be devoted to suggesting remedies for these faults.

Industrially the town is an extremely hard one to alter, being built up entirely for the tobacco trade. To change the main industry of the city
then would mean the loss of a great deal of property.

The tobacco business it is not a very desirable one and has been directly responsible for the low social standard of the young generation of the city. It has taken time to build up the industry, and it will take time to revert to a more desirable one. If gradually other industries could be substituted for the tobacco business, and in time the farmers induced to raise other crops,
the tobacco factor would eventually be forced out. The farmers have not as yet found a good substitute for tobacco.

In suggesting an industry,
that will favorably supplant the tobacco industry, I name the canning factory. The staple crop tobacco, would be changed to peas and corn,
which are in every respect superior to
it. Furthermore, the factory in Edgerton would afford employment for the students and their others during the summer months, from June to September.

As a financial investment this industry is fully equal to that of tobacco with much less risk. It has proved a success in hundreds of localities
and would be far more desirable.
Would it be an improvement to our town to have the offensive tobacco

warehouse eliminated, and commercial buildings in their places on Front street for example? Other industries have proven that they can thrive in Edgerton, in spite of tobacco; but time must be taken, so that the investments can be put into something else gradually, so as to limit the amount of loss by the change.

The educational system as it now exists contains less defects than the social or industrial conditions.

With a few annexations to the present source of study, an enlargement of teaching force, and a slight remodeling of the high school building, the educational course would be improved in the system that would be very helpful would be to keep open the public library every day.

The city has yet several great shades to make in the way of socializing improvement. The most important point in this move is the invention of some scheme, which will bring together the people of the city, to a common meeting place. This is known as the social center.

I believe that the meeting place
should be the high school building.
The various clubs of the city could hold their meetings at the school building. Some doubt whether the naturalized citizens would really care enough to visit the building. The only nationalities of this city that speak the foreign languages are the German and Norwegian. As an incentive to these people we might install magazines of their language in the school building.

In order to interest the young laboring class of the city, I suggest a slight alteration of the high school building. If the gymnasium was enlarged, or an annex built adjoining
the west side of the building
with swimming tank and other sym-nastic apparatus installed, it would prove a very valuable asset to the city. Gymnastics could be made compulsory for a certain time during the evening, so as to bar disagreeable characters. With the school acting as a center for all social gatherings, a closer relationship would be established between the parents and the work of the school.

If the citizens of the town were centralized socially in the school, a
Y. M. C. A. would not be necessary.
This statement is not made with any intention of discouraging any Y. M. C.
A. aspirant. It would greatly decrease the influence of pool halls,
upon the growing characters of Edgerton.

My amount of knowledge concerning the question of prohibition in this city is very limited, but there is could easily get along without the presence of saloons.

This with the tobacco industry substituted by other industries, the school made the social center, and the saloon ousted we would probably have a near perfect city.

Helen Dickenson's paper was written on the subject "What the Young People in Edgerton Want" and would really do credit to a student of the High school. It is given in full below.

If the owners of this part of the country had looked ahead into the future and had seen that this was become a city, they would not have been so greedy about the selling of the property. Otherwise instead of its present low and swampy location, Edgerton might have been situated on the bluff banks of Rock river; with all the water advantages that a river brings to such a place.

We should learn a lesson from the neglect of the early pioneers and look ahead into the needs of the incoming generations, by purchasing property to meet the demand of the fast increasing population, so that when we need more schools and public buildings, they will have the proper locations.

We have a picturesque little stream running through our city, where nature has provided some of the natural beauties for a park; so without any great expense, landscape gardening
could be used in making an attractive place, without the dangers such as streets. It would also serve as a place for resting and recreation for the laboring people. A fountain with fish, and the flowers and shrubbery would help to make it attractive and also amuse the children.

A part of this park could be used as a public playground for the children; particularly those who are not in school. We now have a large school-ground but it is very low and lumpy. This could be remedied by filling it in and sodding it. Many children not able to go to school have to play in the streets (where disease lurks everywhere), because the children who are in school laugh and jeer at them when they try to play on the school ground. In this way, a public playground, or even a part of a park would probably keep many children from the disease and dirt of the streets.

In having a better Edgerton we must have good laws and the citizens
should see that they are enforced, especially those about the boys and girls who are to be the future citizens of Edgerton. Would it not be a good thing to have the laws of Wisconsin, and also those of our city
taught and explained in our schools
so the young people would be helped to the right.

If a person were to walk down the main street they would see many children, girls as well as boys, walking up and down the streets for amusement. Many people say, they would stop to think they might say,
"If we had good clubs and places
where they could go, they would not have to walk the streets for amusement." It stands to show, in this way, that we need more clubs and other organizations such as "The Boy Scouts," "Campfire Girls," a Y. M. C.
A. and a Y. W. C. A.

In several of the cities of the state,
they have, in connection with the churches and schools, public gymnasiums and rooms where the young people may go any time and read or take part in good athletic sports. Surely such a place is much needed in our city.

Then the boys will not be gambling and loitering about the places where they will learn to form bad habits.

When a person is idle they easily get into mischief. So would it not be a good thing for Edgerton to have a canning factory here. Packing the vegetables would furnish out of door
work for many of the boys and girls
during the summer vacation.

As we build the foundations of our lives in the public schools, all the new methods and improvements, such as things that will help to improve our schools, should be put into the hands of the pupils to get a better education and living, so that when they are older they will be able to earn an honest living, should receive the support of all our citizens.

For the health and cleanliness of our city it would be well to have a public hitching place. And our front street would be much more attractive
if the space between the warehouses was green, and grassy with flowers
and some shade where the farmers'
wives could wait and rest while in town shopping.

In telling a few of the things the young people would like, it has been my mind to mention the things that will benefit the people and make

our city better mentally and morally.
If we would be good citizens we must give the best we have to the uplifting of our city. We have learned a lesson from the "Vision of Sir Laun-fal," which might help us in bettering Edgerton.

In what we share with another's
share.
Not what we give but what we
share.
Who gives himself with his aims feels three.
Himself, his hungering neighbor, and Me.

We cannot expect to better Edgerton or help its young people and secure for them what they want, in only stating what they want and the remedies for the evils that exist.

If we wish to really better the conditions and really help the young people to become good citizens, we must give ourselves to the cause.

MILTON

Milton, May 26.—The community
social at the Gymnasium Saturday evening was attended by nearly a thousand from Milton Junction and this locality. The unnecessarily long program prevented many who desired to retire
at a seemingly hour, from participating in the dances and social hour that followed. At the chief feature of these gatherings is supposed to be the social visit and "get-together"
hours it would be a wise measure on the part of the management to materially curtail the program of future events and give the people a chance to meet their friends. This village has a surfeit of literature and musical events and they should not be must the future in community socials. During the evening, Principal Whitford who retires from the high school faculty this year, after a long and successful career was presented

In every age a test of religion has been its power to call out sacrifice. The great temples of the past could be built only by individual self-sacrifice. THE DAUGHTER OF DAVID KERR

"What's the matter?"

He had been quick to catch the note of unhappiness. His daughter had not meant to say anything, but the words had slipped out before she could think. She now tried to erase the impression by saying:

"Matter? Nothing. Why?"

The boss' suspicions were not to be so lulled.

"You're keepin' somethin' back from me, Gloria. What is it?"

"No, I'm not," she insisted.

"Has anyone done anythin' or said anythin' to you?"

"Nothing."

"But somethin' back o' all this. You ain't happy. Anybody can see that. Now what's it all about?" He waited for her to reply, but she would not speak. "Can't you answer?"

Forced into a corner, unable to turn the conversation, Gloria saw no way of escape, and finally stammered:

"It's—it's—well—it's just an atmosphere."

"You go every place."

"To all the big things, yes."

"People are nice to you."

She hesitated, but finally said, "Yes."

"Ain't they?"

"Oh, I suppose so," she admitted in a lifeless manner. "Perhaps I'm not used to western ways, yet the nice people look just like nice people look back East."

"What's different, then?"

"They seem to keep me at arm's length. I don't see why. You're the biggest man in Belmont, and yet I—"

She did not finish the sentence.

"Yet—I—what?" he urged.

"I don't understand, that's all."

"Who, for instance?"

Gloria thought for a moment, and resolved only to name persons in a general way.

"Well, Letty Loomis."

"Old John Loomis' daughter?"

"Is he the big wholesale grocer?"

"That's him. What'd she do?"

"I tell you she didn't do anything. It's just an atmosphere."

"Huh! A beautiful lot o' airs she's got a right to put on," snorted the boss. "Do you know how old Loomis made his money?"

"Groceries, nothin'. That's just a stall. He's got a warehouse chuck full of rotten whisky he sells in prohibition Kansas. That's his real business. He don't sell enough groceries in a year to feed a first class boardin' house. I wouldn't let him sell anything to the poor farm. Don't let that girl o' his put it over you any. And they say he passes the plate in church! Gnd, I hate a hypocrite. I'll make him sweat for it."

Her father was so wrought up that Gloria was afraid to speak further, but when he insisted she told of several instances of which she had been pleased to term antagonistic atmosphere, and in each case Kerr related some disgraceful characteristic of the head of the family. Once he did not hesitate to give his opinion of a society woman whose history he knew well. This intimate knowledge of Belmont affairs and his belittling references to leading citizens made Gloria reach the conclusion that in some way he was in a class by himself. This caused her to soothe him with the remark:

"Father, I think they're jealous because you're head and shoulders above them all."

She might not love him, but her pride in him and her loyalty to him were all the greater for the lack of love. She felt that she was at fault for not having that true filial regard which other daughters had for their fathers, and therefore whenever she could she strengthened her faith in him as Belmont's leading citizen. She was proud to be his daughter.

CHAPTER XI.

On the day of his interview with McIntire Kerr had asked Kendall and Dr. Hayes to meet him at Judge Gilbert's office directly after luncheon. At this conference he intended to tell them they would have to acquire the News. The transfer of the property need not be made until after the election, but he wanted to know at once that it was his.

The boss was late, and the three men had to wait some time for him. "I wouldn't want the boys to know it," said Gilbert disconsolately, "but I'm afraid he's got us beat."

Kendall was hopeful still.

"It's three days till election," he urged. "Anything can happen in that time."

"I wish I believed in miracles like you do," was Dr. Hayes' rueful comment.

"Only a miracle can save us," added Judge Gilbert gloomily.

"I tell you, gentlemen," insisted Kendall, "I still think Dave Kerr can swing it."

"All the same," answered the corner, "when I went out to stick my good money in real estate options on factory sites I wash I'd been riding Balaam's ass."

The others laugh at his expense was cut short by the entrance of David Kerr.

"How 'a it look, Mr. Kerr?" asked Gilbert.

"It might be worse," was the reply. "We count the votes, don't we?"

Gilbert was not optimistic.

"I'm afraid it isn't going to be that close."

"Have you heard anything from the eleventh?" queried Kendall.

"I had a talk with Sweeney this morning, and he said he could put enough stockyards people in the 'tenth to deliver the ward all right. Balaam's ass."

"He's up against it in the sixth."

"Then we can't count on much outside the river wards," said Kendall.

Kerr nodded his head. He could have added that the river ward men would vote early and often, but that there was no occasion for it. It was an open secret that for several weeks floaters had been colonized in the levee district.

"We can't count on much besides them wards," explained Kerr, "unless the Belmont News goes out of business."

"What can we do about it?" inquired Hayes. He saw defeat staring them in the face.

"Sam," replied the boss after a moment's silence, "every man's got his price—in some form or other."

"News or no News, we've got to win," exclaimed Kendall desperately. "I've staked everything on it in Chicago and I must get results—and that means a franchise and nothing but a franchise."

"Then we've got to have that paper at any cost."

"It's mortgaged for all it's worth," said Gilbert.

"That won't help us in the next three days," snapped Kendall.

"There ain't no use mincing matters," concluded the boss. "We're up against it. There's only one thing to do; see what he'll sell for, and pay him his price."

Judge Gilbert looked at the matter from the point of view of a business lawyer.

"It won't be cash down for the whole thing. We merely assume the mortgage, and then pay him whatever he'll take to clear out."

Kerr had figured all this out. With him time was the most important consideration.

"We've got to get busy mighty quick," said the boss.

"When are you going to see him?" asked Kendall.

"We can't very well go to his office," said Gilbert. "Even that little move would give him more of an advantage."

"Get him over here," ordered Kerr. "Telephone him. He'll come. You needn't say who's here."

Judge Gilbert picked up the telephone on the table and asked Williams, his secretary, who sat in the outer office, to get Mr. Wright at the Belmont News on the line for him.

Judge Gilbert's office consisted of an outer room where sat his secretary, within, where Kerr and his lieutenants were in conference, was the library, a large room looking out on the main thoroughfare of Belmont; and from this, opposite the outer reception room, then opened, two smaller rooms, one of which Gilbert used as his private office, the other as a room for consultations.

When Gilbert finished telephoning, he said, "His busy going over the proofs of some late stuff for this afternoon's paper, but he'll be over in half an hour or so."

CHAPTER XII.

When Gloria found that the Presbyterian Mission was in need of money in order to extend its work, she suggested to Mrs. Hayes that they go among their friends, explain the situation and ask money for their charity.

One of the first upon whom they called was Judge Gilbert. Williams explained that the judge was busy for a few minutes, and asked them to be seated. He did not know if the men cared to be bothered with mere women on such a day.

When Williams announced that Miss Kerr and Mrs. Hayes wished to see him, Judge Gilbert asked Kerr if he knew the meaning of the visit.

"They got some sort o' mission work they're beggin' for. It's just a polite shake down."

"I didn't know she had taken it up that seriously. I just thought she went down with Mrs. Hayes out of curiosity room, there opened two oysters."

"Women is queer creatures, Amos. Gloria's spendin' lots of her time with long to get rid of is a 'goner.' You apply 'GETS-IT' does the rest. There's no more fussing, no more bandages to fix, no more salves to turn the flesh red and raw. No more plasters to get misplaced and press on the corn. No more 'pulling' no more pain, no more picking and gouging, no more casing."

"GETS-IT" stops pain, shrivels up the corn, and the corn vanishes. "GETS-IT" never fails, is harmless to healthy flesh. Warts, chilblains and tumors disappear.

metan. "There was too much at stake for him to neglect to interpolate anything effective which chance might throw in his way."

As the two men walked back into the library, Mrs. Hayes was saying:

"Dr. Hayes and I have had quite an argument, and here are the lawyers, Gloria, who can settle the question for us. Can a woman steal from her husband, Mr. Kendall?"

Kendall knitted his brows in perplexity. "Really, Mrs. Hayes, that is a question I shall have to take under advisement."

"But a man can steal from his wife," Gloria put in. There was a general laugh at this which she did not relish.

"I'm talking seriously. If it weren't so, we mightn't be here begging money."

"So you are after money," said Judge Gilbert lightly. "Then you must tell me why I should contribute to keep men from stealing from their wives, you who have no one to steal from you."

Gloria was not to be diverted from what she had to say. These men to whom she was talking represented to her what was best in Belmont, what was best in manhood. She wished them to see the truth as she saw it.

"It isn't that kind of stealing," she went on. "It's worse than that. Till I went with Mrs. Hayes to visit the mission I had no idea of the degradation and misery in a town even like Belmont. When I say men steal from their wives I mean they take money they should spend on their families and spend it for whisky and gambling."

"I think it's a shame that such men as you, Judge Gilbert, and you, Dr. Hayes, and you, Father, of all persons, permit such things to happen here in Belmont. I wish I were a man!"

"You can't keep people from spending their money," said Kerr, as he looked at his watch.

Dr. Hayes caught the slight nod the boss gave, and said something to his wife. Then, interrupting the discussion, he said to Gloria:

"I'm already on the list of cheerful givers, Miss Kerr, and I'm going to ask if you'll let me carry off Mrs. Hayes for half an hour or so."

"But I'm only assisting her," she replied in surprise.

The boss' further opinion concerning settlement work was not voiced because, while Kerr was talking, Judge Gilbert had telephoned Williams to usher Mrs. Hayes and Miss Kerr into the library.

Followed by the other men, Gilbert advanced to meet them, and after the usual greetings had been exchanged, offered them chairs.

"You must pardon us," began Mrs. Hayes. "We did not expect to find you so busy. To tell the truth, we didn't expect to find two persons here whom we have already visited."

She looked at Kerr and her husband. "I'm the Cheerful Giver," said Kerr with a humorous grimace which pretended to show that the donation was not so cheerfully parted with.

"I'm not so cheerful, but I was a giver," added Dr. Hayes.

"I told Judge Gilbert to lock the safe, that I knew you would be after money," Kerr continued.

"Highway robbers, I call them," was Dr. Hayes' testimony this time.

"A bad reputation they've given us, Judge Gilbert," laughed Gloria, "and we don't deserve it, indeed we don't."

Kerr walked into the private office and Gilbert, catching his eye, followed him. The boss said something; Gilbert looked at the women and then nodded his head in assent. Dr. Hayes, also catching the boss' eye, strolled away from the group casually as the judge rejoined it. A word with him was all that Kerr required.
